This one story three bay brick church rebuilt in 1915 is one of many small rural churches which dot the Washington County countryside. This building is not as old as many of these structures, but the cemetery with its graves from the 1840's indicate that a church (probably not a Church of God) was established here during the 19th century.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Broadfording Church of God is located on the south side of Broadfording Road about 3/4 mile west of the Conococheague Creek between Clear Spring and Hagerstown in Washington County, Maryland. It is situated on a high bluff and faces north, toward the road.

The church is a one story brick building, three bays in length and three wide. It is of brick construction displaying American or common bonding with eight courses of stretchers between header rows. The building rests on stone foundations and has a corner stone indicating that the Bethel Church of God was rebuilt in 1915. Decorative exterior brickwork includes projecting piers or pilasters between the bays, corbeling above the foundations and below the eaves and double courses of header bricks lining the gothic arched windows. The windows themselves are plain. In addition to the gothic style windows, small diamond shaped windows are located in the gables.

The main entrance is centered in the north end wall. A small projecting entrance bay has been added.

The roof is sheathed with modern asphalt shingles and extends beyond the end walls of the building. A small modern steeple extends from the roof of the building near its north end.

A brick flue extends up the north wall of the church. A modern addition dated 1974 is attached to the east elevation of the church.

The structure appears to be in excellent condition. It is adjoined by a cemetery in which the oldest graves date from the 1840's.
